

Move To Oust Acheson Faces Big Obstacles

Ranks Of GOP Split Over Issue

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON—(AP)—A drive by Republicans to knock Dean Acheson off the state department payroll faced two big obstacles today in the House—a vote shortage and a possible parliamentary snag.

With GOP ranks splitting on the issue and Democratic lines evidently firmer than usual, Republican leaders doubted if they had anywhere near enough votes to win their campaign against the secretary of state.

May Be Knocked Out

And, even if they had enough votes, they might not get a chance to use them.

In advance of an actual official ruling, there was widespread belief that a Republican amendment aimed at Acheson might, unless modified, be knocked out on the technicality that it is legislation in an appropriation bill. House rules prohibit this.

Some administration leaders argued that the amendment, to be offered to the state department appropriation bill, would impose additional duties on the president, and thus would run afoul of the ban against legislating in a money bill.

The amendment as now drafted would prohibit use of any money carried in the bill to pay the salary of the head of any executive department who, within five years preceding his appointment, was affiliated with a professional firm that acted for a foreign government, unless his nomination is "submitted or resubmitted" for Senate confirmation.

Acheson's former law firm once represented the government of Poland, so he would come within the proposed prohibition and—if the amendment becomes law—could get his pay only if President Truman resubmitted his nomination and the Senate confirmed it.

Jobs Of 25,000 Tied To Dispute

Union Complains Of Speedup In Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)—The jobs of 25,000 auto workers were all wrapped up in dispute today.

This included the month-old "strike or lockout" issue at Hudson and a private union fight as well as a bout with management at Chrysler.

The former bore on 10,000 workers, the latter on 15,000.

Hudson accused the CIO United Auto Workers of calling a strike in violation of their contract.

For 32 successive days Hudson had sent home its 10,000 production workers when cars piled up on the assembly lines. The union said a "speed-up" was the cause and charged contract violation and a "lockout."

Yesterday UAW Local 154 put into effect a policy of not going to work until Hudson makes jobs available "in good faith." The union insisted this was not a strike.

Sixteen hundred trim workers at Chrysler's Dodge main plant walked out again yesterday in an unauthorized strike. This led to a layoff of more than 14,000 others.

MacArthur Says U. S. Foreign Policy Bows To Soviet Propaganda

BOSTON—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur charged last night that Soviet propaganda "completely dominates" American foreign policy and claimed the result of the war in Korea has been "indecisive."

Coupling a blistering attack on administration policies abroad with what he called "reckless" spending at home, the five-star general laid down these major points:

1.—The United States has no foreign policy.

2.—Costs of government have risen at "an accelerated, alarming and reckless rate" with no plan for curbing taxes or inflation.

3.—The survival of the free world is infinitely more dependent upon the maintenance of a strong, vigorous, healthy and independent American than upon any financial aid which we might provide under our own existing stringencies.

Not "Fading Away"

In the eyes of Massachusetts politicians, MacArthur has thrown himself into the 1952 presidential fight—either as a candidate or a campaigner.

Costello Freed On $5,000 Bail

Contempt Case Faces Underworld King

NEW YORK—(AP)—Frank Costello, reputed king of the underworld, was free on $5,000 bail today after pleading innocent to charges of contempt of the United States Senate.

Imprisoned gamblers Joe Adonis and Frank Erickson, also indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury for allegedly defying Senate crime probes, will be arraigned today or tomorrow.

After the jury handed up the indictments, Costello hopped a subway to the federal courthouse to give himself up before Federal Judge John F. X. McGohey.

Fingerprinted in the U. S. marshal's office, Costello, who admitted he served several months in prison in 1917 for illegally carrying a gun, asked, "What have they got against me now?"

The indictments against the trio of underworld characters resulted from their refusal to answer questions put to them by the Senate Crime committee during its televised hearings here last March.

Costello was named in a nine-count indictment, Adonis in 16 and Erickson in 74. The top penalty on each count is one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Front Line Officers Skeptical Of Lull In Korean Fighting

KOREAN FRONT—(AP)—Peace progress at Kaesong today was matched on the fighting front by one of the quietest days in the 13 months of the Korean war.

Despite the peace talks front line officers continued skeptical and pointed to the unending Communist buildup of supplies and manpower. Always before this has been a sure sign of a coming offensive. Last night, nearly 1,200 trucks were sighted on the move behind enemy lines.

Today's action involved small-scale enemy probing attacks.

Full-Dress Peace Talks Starting Today In Korea

Ex-Convict Gives Up In Detroit Arsenal Payoff

DETROIT—(AP)—Wayne R. Campbell, 40-year-old ex-convict, wanted for questioning about defense contract deals and loans to federal employees at the Army's arsenal and tank-automotive center, surrendered today to state police.

He had been sought since Monday by the Wayne (Detroit) county prosecutor's office and a congressional committee investigating reports of gifts to Army employees and officers.

Covers Betting Losses

Through his attorney, Clarence A. Reid, Campbell admitted he had been juggling funds of business associates to cover huge betting losses, but denied that anyone at the arsenal or center ever had received any payoff money from him.

Joseph Wiesner, owner of the Fairfield Engineering Co., told the investigating congressmen this week he made loans to five federal employees through Campbell, from whom he said he got government defense orders.

Campbell's attorney said his client threatened suicide after he fled the committee hearing Monday, but decided to surrender so he could clear "innocent persons."

Parts Never Delivered

Campbell told Reid, the attorney said, that the supposed loan checks were made out to fictitious names and were cashed by Campbell in handbooks to make horse bets. As his losses grew, Reid said Campbell told him he had to increase the scope of his fund juggling.

Wiesner testified he wrote checks for Campbell for more than $200,000 in the last two years.

P. L. Grissom, a Chevrolet dealer and defense contractor, told assistant prosecutor Ralph Garber today he had given Campbell $130,000 to $140,000 for manufacture of parts which have not been delivered.

Congress Trying To Squelch Black Markets In Meat

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The administration won a round today when Senate-House conferees voted to permit rent rollbacks to the May 24-June 24, 1950 level in newly declared critical defense areas.

A conference committee approved that provision in the economic controls bill passed by the Senate and decided to junk a House bill provision which would have barred rent rollbacks in those areas.

Still before the conferees is the question of livestock slaughter quotas, banned by House and Senate bills.

Senator Maybank (D-SC) said he is confident the group will vote to scrap the ban in a move "to block meat black markets."

Senator Bricker (R-Ohio) told reporters that he will help lead a fight to put such a ban into effect. He said scuttling or softening it "wouldn't help curb black markets at all."

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle has said elimination of slaughter quotas would jeopardize the entire stabilization program. Foes of the program contend, on the other hand, that the effect of the program is to curtail meat production and encourage black markets.

The proposed ban on the program is only one part of bills to continue beyond July 31 the existing wage, price, rent and other economic controls—in most cases in modified form.

The Senate bill provides for an extension through next February. The House measure calls for continuation through next June. The present law expires at midnight next Tuesday.

Price Levels Rise Despite OPS Pledge

By STERLIN F. GREEN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some important price ceilings were bulging upward today despite the "no-changes-in-July" policy fixed by price stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle.

For consumers, OPS had announced of a "slight" increase in the general price level of all major canned vegetables of the 1951 pack.

For industry, the bad news was a three-cent increase in copper refined from imported ores. OPS clung to its ceiling on domestic copper.

The new regulation covering the billion-dollar canned vegetable industry was issued last night. It now affects only canned green peas, but snap beans, lima beans, corn, beets and tomatoes

Firm UN Stand In Korea May Have Headed Off World War

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman today expressed belief that the "resolute" United Nations' stand against aggression in Korea may have headed off a world war.

Declaring that the U. N., by its reaction to the Communist attack on South Korea "made clear that an aggressor will not be allowed to isolate and destroy his victims one by one," Mr. Truman added:

"There is much to indicate that the resolute resistance of U. N. troops has given pause to those aggressive forces which cold-bloodedly brought tragedy to Korea."

Solidarity Demonstrated

These views were contained in a letter to transmittal with which the president submitted to Congress a report on United States participation in the U. N. during 1950.

Mr. Truman referred to the 450-page report as "A record of decision and action in the face of danger" and "for the most part a record of solidarity among U. N. members against aggression."

Declaring that "The aggressors and their supporters undoubtedly believed" the U. N. would not rally to the defense of South Korea, Mr. Truman said:

"It is probable that one of the purposes of the attack was to break down—through such a failure—any possibility of effective U. N. action against aggression in the future." He added:

"The U. N. elected to act now rather than to drift passively once more down the fatal trail of failure to oppose aggression which leads finally to total war. Thousands of men have therefore sacrificed their lives in Korea to the end that millions may not lose their lives in a world war."

No Material Interest

Noting that Communist propaganda has sought to represent the United States' part in the Korean war as "imperialism," Mr. Truman said:

"Our action * * * was not dictated by any American material interest there. We neither sought nor do we seek any special position or privilege in Korea. Our action on the crisis was motivated by our deep conviction of the importance of preventing a breakdown of the international security system and of the principles of the (U. N.) charter."

"I was convinced then, and I am convinced now, that to have ignored the appeal of Korea for aid, to have stood aside from the assault upon the charter, would have meant the end of the U. N. as a shield against aggression," Mr. Truman said. "It might have meant the end of any possibility that collective security could be made to work."

Covering U. N. developments up to Dec. 31, the report and the president's letter bore no reference to the current efforts to work out an armistice in Korea.

Mr. Truman said that "American fighting men have rarely in all our history struck more important blows for human freedom and welfare."

He also paid a tribute to the fighting men of 15 other countries taking part in the Korea struggle.

Seaway Project Measure Killed

House Group Tables St. Lawrence Bill

By JAMES C. MUNN
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project was killed today by the House public works committee.

The action was taken by a 15 to 12 roll call vote of the 27-member committee on a motion by Rep. Pickett (D-Tex.) to table the bill.

Today's vote means the measure cannot again be brought before the committee unless two-thirds of the membership votes or unless unanimous consent is obtained.

Thus, for all practical purposes, the long debated seaway proposal again was buried by Congress, another setback for forces which have been seeking its authorization for nearly 20 years.

The project authorization, in the form of a treaty, was first beaten in the Senate in 1934.

In February, 1948, the Senate, by a 57 to 30 vote, returned the measure to its foreign relations committee for further study.

Today's defeat marked the first time the legislation had been voted down by a congressional committee.

Bulgarian Red Leaders Balky

Farm Collectivization Brings On Crisis

VIENNA—(AP)—The Communist Journal admits that some Communist leaders in Bulgaria have refused to obey orders and says that "such things cannot be tolerated."

The editorial in the official organ of the Moscow-led Cominform bolstered reports reaching here that Bulgaria's Communist party is widely split and that the peasants in that Russian satellite are in almost open rebellion.

Western reports say the crisis in Bulgaria resulted from too rapid collectivization of farms. These reports claim many local Communists sided with the dispossessed farmers and failed to carry out the party's program.

Reports here say that some dispossessed peasants have hidden out in the mountains and formed groups of armed raiders. Others reportedly have fled to Yugoslavia, but many more have been imprisoned.

According to some reports Premier Chervenkov himself has fallen from power and been replaced by Georgi Chankov, deputy chairman of the Council of Ministers.

Antrim Officer New Head Of Sheriffs

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich.—(AP)—John Kilborn, sheriff of Antrim county, was named president of the Michigan sheriff's association yesterday.

Concluding a three-day convention, the group also elected Sheriff Albert Jacobsen of Marquette county as vice-president and re-elected Charles L. Miller of St. Joseph, Mich., secretary-treasurer.

Kilborn replaces Sheriff William E. Miron of Delta county. Approximately 150 members attended the sessions.

Agenda Adopted By Allied And Red Delegates

Shooting Won't Stop; Views Far Apart

(By The Associated Press)
United Nations and Communist negotiators today agreed on a five-point agenda for cease-fire talks in Korea.

This announcement by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters means that discussion of actual armistice terms to end the shooting has already begun and will be continued at the eleventh session tomorrow.

The agenda points were listed as follows:

1. Adoption of the agenda.
2. Establishing a buffer zone between opposing armies.
3. Definite arrangements to end the shooting and supervise the truce.
4. Arrangements for exchanging prisoners of war.
5. Recommendations to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides.

The last point apparently refers to a recommendation for subsequent discussion of withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea. The talks bogged down last Saturday when the Communists insisted that this point be written into the agenda. The United Nations delegation refused and the Chinese Communists asked a three-day adjournment. Yesterday the Red delegation came up with what was described as an acceptable and reasonable compromise. "A U. N. spokesman said: 'Now we're getting somewhere.'"

Millionaire Field Won't Tell About Bonds For 4 Reds

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Fredrick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire "angel" of left-wing causes, refused today to tell a Senate committee whether he posted bonds for Communist leaders.

"I think I should refuse to answer . . ." Field said in a voice barely audible in the packed Senate hearing room.

Field was brought before the senators from New York where he is serving a 90-day jail term for contempt of court. That sentence was given him for refusing to tell a federal judge who contributed to the Civil Rights Congress bail fund.

The fund posted $80,000 bond for four Communists who skipped after losing an appeal to the supreme court from convictions with seven others of plotting to teach the overthrow of the government by violence.

Sharing Umbrella Costs Widow $700

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Mrs. Josephine Wolfe's answer will be "no" the next time someone asks to duck under her umbrella.

The 65-year-old widow felt kindly toward a strange woman during a sudden downpour the other day and gave the woman shelter.

The act cost Mrs. Wolfe $700. The stranger told of a real estate man who could "double your money in no time." Mrs. Wolfe was persuaded. But after she handed over her money the real estate man and strange woman disappeared.

Hoard's Dairyman Editor To Speak At Round-Up

Dairying is one of the mainstays of Upper Peninsula agriculture and new information in the field is always welcome to farmers, says Russell E. Horwood, supervisor of the Chatham Experiment Station of Michigan State College.

For this reason, W. D. Knox, editor of Hoard's Dairyman magazine, has been chosen as feature speaker for the Farmers' Round-up at Chatham, Friday, August 3.

A native of Sault Ste. Marie and graduate of Michigan State College, Knox will bring a number of interesting observations to Round-up visitors. Topic of his talk will be "The Skeletons in Our Closet." He will discuss some of the important problems facing the dairy industry today.

An average American dairy cow, he points out, produced but 200 pounds of butterfat. Annual toll of diseases, injuries, and parasites at least equal, if not far exceed, the entire net income from dairying. Solution of such problems are needed, Knox believes, for a prosperous dairy economy.

The dairy editor's talk will be given during the speaking program, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The Round-up, an all-day affair, will begin at 10:00 a. m. and continue through the afternoon.

Superintendent Horwood believes the program will offer features for the whole family. Basket lunches may be brought and eaten in the orchard picnic area at noon. Pasties, hot dogs, coffee, milk, candy, pop and ice cream will be available at the Chatham 4-H Club and Home-makers' stand. A limited number of meals will be served at adjoining Camp Shaw.

having an accident are seven times greater at night than in the daytime.

Caused Person to Dodge: If the violation caused a person to jump back or another motorist swerve his car or slam his brakes, the offense certainly was more apt to have caused a serious accident. The accident was prevented by someone other than the violator.

Just Missed Accident: If the illegal driving act almost hit another vehicle or pedestrian, this proves the violation was particularly dangerous and warrants a more severe penalty.

Actually Hit Object: When the illegal driving act actually results in a collision with another vehicle or causes the motorist to strike a pedestrian, this is conclusive evidence of a dangerous violation. The conditions draws the most severe penalty.

Must Drive Carefully
The motorist who commits a violation when one or more of these conditions prevail must expect to pay a higher fine than the same violation under less dangerous conditions. Only in this way will it be possible to impress motorists to recognize the dangerous hazards of motoring and to drive accordingly.

Hildebrand Goes To Chillicothe

Woodlands Manager Transferred By Mead

W. H. Hildebrand, woodlands manager of the Michigan division of the Mead corporation, has been appointed to the corporation's woodlands division with headquarters at Chillicothe, Ohio. He will assume his new duties in August.

A graduate of the forestry school of the University of Michigan, Hildebrand was employed with the Soil Conservation Service at Muskegon a few years before joining the Munising Paper company. He came to Escanaba in December, 1949, to take charge of the timberlands of the Escanaba Paper company and the Manistique Pulp & Paper company, both affiliated with the Mead corporation.

His work in Chillicothe will be associated with wood procurement and forestry problems. It is expected he will visit Escanaba and Manistique from time to time in connection with the woodlands in this area.

While at the University of Michigan, Hildebrand played on the football team. Since coming to Escanaba, he has been active in the company's bowling league, golf and volleyball programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Hildebrand and their three sons, Willard, Richard and Ronald, will move to their new home in Chillicothe next month.

Boyle Denies He Aided RFC Deal

Democratic Chairman Linked To Loan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National committee says he had nothing to do with negotiations for a $565,000 government loan granted a St. Louis firm on its fourth try.

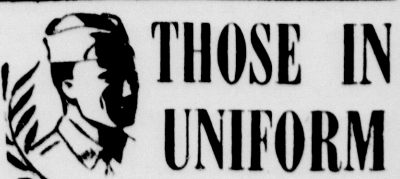

Boyle acknowledged yesterday that he represented the company, the American Lithofold Corp., "in legal matters not connected with the company's application for an RFC loan."

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC) granted the firm the loan in question in 1949, but none of the money was advanced until Jan. 6, 1950. The loan was to have matured Jan. 6, 1953, RFC said, but it was paid off in full last Aug. 30 after the printing company obtained private financing.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch had reported yesterday that Boyle, a close friend of President Truman, received $8,000 from the company, the payments being made in monthly installments beginning shortly after the RFC loan was granted.

In his statement, Boyle said nothing about fees from the printing firm. He said he severed his relations with the company, and with all his other law clients, shortly after assuming full-time duties as executive vice chairman of the Democratic National committee in April 1949.

He later became chairman of the committee. In both positions, his salary has been $30,000 a year.

C&NW To Build New Bridges

Will Replace Spans On Menominee River

Chicago & North Western Railway is planning to rebuild two railroad bridges across the Menominee river to permit increased rail iron ore shipments.

The railroad has filed a proposed building schedule with U. S. Engineers, who have posted notices of the construction work because it is over a navigable stream.

It is proposed to replace the four through riveted 484-foot truss spans on bridge No. 88 near White street in Marinette, and the same on the 455-foot bridge No. 88½ near 10th avenue and 22nd street in Menominee.

The truss span superstructure of each bridge will be replaced with eight deck plate girder spans of shorter span lengths and in addition concrete pile piers will be constructed half way between the present masonry piers. The proposed clear widths between piers and abutments vary from 46 feet to 56 feet. All spans will have a vertical clearance of 5.7 feet above low-water datum for Green bay.

The existing bridges were built in 1893.

Nationwide Airline Has Earned Right To Federal Certification

THE Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington will soon be giving its decision on the application of the Nationwide Airlines for certification of its route between the two peninsulas of Michigan.

Without any air mail subsidy, the Nationwide Airlines long has been providing a much-needed and much-appreciated transportation service between Detroit and Houghton. In recent weeks, it has expended an additional $10,000 for a telephone system and other facilities in anticipation of federal certification.

It would be a great disappointment to the Nationwide Airlines and the people of the Upper Peninsula if CAB denies the application. An average payload of 15 persons is being carried by the airline on each trip. This is proof that it is the type of transportation service that is wanted.

But Nationwide Airlines cannot continue to operate indefinitely without an air mail contract. Certification is long overdue. The airline has brought the extreme

Economic Pressure Ends Fake Trials

HOW can we prevent Russia and its satellites from continuing to seize innocent Americans on false spy charges?

Nobody but a few irresponsible senators has suggested we should use or even threaten force. Force may evoke more force, with war the end result. Destruction and the death of possibly millions are a steep price to pay for the freedom of a few men. Especially as there is evidence we can effect their release by other means.

We can't be sure we shall not have war some day with the Communist world. But we are not likely to let it commence over the trial of a William Oatis or a Robert Vogeler on fake grounds of espionage. Or over the prospect of more such trials.

A more common proposal is that we should sever diplomatic relations with any country which thus mistreats or threatens to mistreat our citizens. Presumably no one seriously intends we should do this while an American is actually being held, since this action would isolate him completely from contact with the U. S. government.

Suppose, though, that we decided now to cut ties with Hungary, which held Vogeler but later let him go. Hungary's diplomats in America would, of course, have to go home. We know all satellite embassies and legations are spy centers, so to that extent we would gain.

But we would also lose a listening post in Hungary, where we have a sizable staff and can observe—one way or another—what the Communists are doing. The kind of information diplomatic attaches gather is not made public, but it would be risky to assume it is unimportant to us.

With western reporters behind the Iron Curtain down to a handful, we're getting a scanty enough portrait of life there. Perhaps they would like nothing better than to have us shut up shop and go home, even at cost of one diplomatic spy headquarters.

Like them, we have spies, too. But it's a lot easier for theirs to operate in a free country like America than for ours to get information in a police state under strict censorship. They might well see themselves the gainers in any break-off.

What about economic sanctions? We've already imposed many trade restrictions. We can do more to strangle satellite trade with us, and influence other Western powers to follow suit.

Reports filtering out from behind the Curtain indicate that these trade limits really do hurt. Despite all efforts at self-containment, the Communist world needs materials and products the West has. The Reds suffer when the flow is reduced or stopped.

Economic sanctions seem the most promising field to work. Where, as with Hungary, we may fear further arrests of Americans, we can perhaps gradually tighten a clamp on trade with the Reds. Moving step by step would permit us to gauge closely the effect the restrictions were having, and also would leave us something in reserve. An immediate blanket ban would not give us this flexibility, would not keep the Reds guessing as to what was coming next.

This certainly does not exhaust the possibilities. But economic measures definitely can strike a painful blow, and we ought to look to them hopefully if the need arises.

Song In Your Heart

By Gordon Martin

It is true that many people cannot sing a tuneful note, and they envy those so fortunate to have a golden throat. But there's still another way to do some singing just as grand, though it isn't set to music that is played by any band. When you waken in the morning and the day's about to start, you can be a fine musician if a song is in your heart.

If a song is in your heart, you may not make the heavens ring, but you see the worth of others and the blessings that they bring. If a song is in your heart, you face the future with a smile, and you hear a pleasant melody while walking every mile. If a song is in your heart, you've got a symphony of love, and you're grateful for the gift of life bestowed by Him above.

No there isn't any chance your singing voice will win you fame, but within you is a stirring march that helps you play the game, or a lullaby, a ballad, or perhaps a lilting verse, that will make you rich in music, even though you're poor in purse. If you cannot sing a single note, you still can play your part, if you greet each day with courage and a song is in your heart.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—The demoralized mobilization chiefs met behind closed doors the other day and tried to be cheerful about the gutted controls bill which Congress voted them.

The meeting was called by Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston, but it was jolly price boss Mike DiSalle who tried to cheer up his colleagues with some of his famous wise cracks.

"Hello, fellow sufferers," he boomed cheerily. He said his feeling about the new controls bill was best illustrated by a Berryman cartoon.

"A guy went into the gas station to get some gas, and they took two tires off his car," quipped DiSalle.

DiSalle was philosophical, however, and remarked ruefully: "We went in for an operation. We thought we might lose our life, but we only lost an arm."

Leon Keyserling, the president's chief economic adviser, agreed.

"After many years of observing legislative battles," he commented, "I can say that when the smoke of battle clears away, the defeats are not as great as imagined."

DiSalle reported that slaughter quotas are so important in keeping down the price of meat that he would submit a special bill in another, last-ditch attempt to get Congress to restore slaughter controls.

Turning to Wage Stabilizer George Taylor, DiSalle wise-cracked again: "George talks about our dealing with inanimate objects, and he deals with the animate. The only trouble is, the inanimate objects are handled by the animate."

The other mobilization officials made brief, technical reports, and Johnston adjourned the meeting.

SURPRISE OIL VOTE
Tidelands oil lobbyists are planning a neat trick in order to win the wealthy submerged oil lands off the coast of Texas, California, and Louisiana.

They are secretly planning to bring up their bill for a surprise vote tomorrow when northeastern congressmen begin their Friday exodus to New York and Philadelphia.

Northeastern congressmen for the most part favor the plan proposed by Ex-Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and pushed by Senator Hill of Alabama and others, to use royalties from submerged oil lands to aid the schools and colleges of the entire nation.

The supreme court has ruled that tidelands oil belonged not to the three states which have large deposits off their shores, but to the entire 48 states.

However, the oil lobby has introduced a bill which would reverse the supreme court. This is the bill set for a surprise vote on Friday.

Note 1—Several hundred thousand teachers, school boards, and Parent-Teacher associations will be watching to see what congressmen are absent on Friday and how the others vote.

Note 2—Senator Case of South Dakota, Republican, who went on record several years ago for the use of tidelands oil royalties for education, is now helping the fight for the improvement of schools and colleges.

PROTECTING THE LOBBYISTS
Though the law requires that Congress publish quarterly reports on lobbyists in the congressional record, giving their names, incomes, and affiliations, no report has been made this year.

However, a report on the lobbies for the first quarter of this year has been gathering dust at the government printing office for almost three months—all because Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, chairman of the joint committee on printing, has refused to permit its publication.

Senator Hayden claims that it would cost too much to print the full report in the Congressional Record. However, the Arizona senator hasn't raised his voice against filling the record with page after page of form letters against price controls which these same lobbyists have inserted through friendly congressmen at the taxpayers' expense.

Naturally, the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the American Medical Association, and other big lobbies agree with Senator Hayden in not wanting the names of their pressure men, or their fees, made public.

However, the law is quite clear, and at the moment Senator Hayden is violating the law.

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC
Buffalo: Will you please put the word foyer through your Pronunciation Clinic? We have had quite an argument about it.—K. W. C.

Foyer is a French loan word, meaning literally, "a fireplace." The French pronunciation is: fwa-yay (the first "a" flat, as in wagh).

In American usage, a foyer is "a kind of lobby, as of a theatre or apartment." American dictionaries list three pronunciations: (1) fwa-yay; (2) foy-YAY; (3) FOY-er.

Since foyer is a French word shouldn't we give it the French pronunciation, fwa-YAY? The answer is no, and this is why:

More than 36 per cent of all English words are from the French, but we do not consider them French, for most of them date back in English to the Norman Conquest. Moreover, the true French pronunciations are hardly ever preserved in English if they contain sounds that are not heard in English (for example, the French nasal sounds).

A good case in point is the word employer. The French say: (ah) (n)-plwa-yay. We give the word its logical English values: em-PLOY-er. So, if -ployer to us spells PLOY-er, it is entirely proper that foyer should spell FOY-er. Indeed, it is the Standard American pronunciation.

Watch the word pamphlet. Not "pamp-let."

Be sure to say: PAM-flit.
We often hear the word protein as "PROE-teen," a pronunciation which has some dictionary sanction. The dictionary consensus and best American usage, however, is PROE-tee-in, with three syllables.

Did You Ever See Such a Glutton for Punishment?

Big Business Executive Discovers Even A Bureaucrat Can Be Thrifty

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Edwin T. Gibson, General Foods executive vice president, is retiring soon as deputy administrator of National Production Administration. He thinks more businessmen should come to Washington as he has, to learn how the vast U. S. government operates. He himself has gained considerable respect for the ability of many top bureaucrats. And he has one story to show how the supposedly spendthrift government pinches its pennies.

As a "WOC"—a private citizen serving the government "without compensation," Mr. Gibson has been allowed the usual $15-a-day expense money. That's supposed to cover everything. On one occasion he had to go to New York. To save the government some money, he hopped a ride on a General Foods private plane which happened to be going that way. But he came back by train, and billed the government for the return fare.

His expense account went through General Accounting Office audit, and came back with $1.40 disallowed. The reason given was that he should have bought a round-trip ticket, to save the government money. Patiently he wrote a letter explaining that he had ridden for free one way on this trip. He asked if, in the future, he should ride only by train and charge the government both ways, at increased cost.

GAO never answered this question. But they sent him a check for $1.40.

Not Unusual
Defense Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann, who is also National Production Authority administrator, believes that the U. S. civilian economy will rock along at about the present rate for the rest of 1951. This is at the level of 60 to 70 per cent of 1950, and he says it's still a pretty high standard of living.

When Administrator Fleischmann gave this assuring news at a press conference, he was asked when the great "inflationary gap" would hit—when would it be that there was more money in circulation than there were goods to buy? One reporter observed that there still seemed to be more goods in the stores than he had money to buy them with.

"That," admitted Fleischmann, "is also certainly true in my case."

Israel and Oil
Israel is making strong bid to become a great oil refining center, picking up the ball that Iran is fumbling through its nationalization fight with Britain.

Refinery at Haifa, Israel, is third largest in Middle East. It was built by Anglo-Iranian and Royal Dutch companies. Present capacity is four million tons a year, but only one-third of this capacity is now used.

Plans are underway to raise capacity to nine million tons a year. Crude oil is now received from Kuwait region on Persian Gulf through 12-inch pipe-line, but additional oil could be brought by tanker.

Don't Be Scared, but—
No scare statements have been put out to alarm the public unduly, but two hints have been given that U. S. Defense officials consider Russian threat greater than at any time since end of World War II.

First was Defense Secretary George Marshall's statement to House Foreign Affairs Committee on the need for European arm aid. General Marshall then referred to "the amazing build-up" of Soviet power. Earlier, General Marshall had expressed concern over Russian army occupation of southern Kurile islands, just a short distance from Hokkaido, Japan.

Second warning was given by Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, on 1000-plane strength of Red Chinese in Korea and Manchuria. Point here was that if Korean fighting continued, Communist forces might have air superiority over the United Nations. Results of conflict under such conditions might be far different from what they have been.

Let's Not Do It Alone
Here is new argument being advanced by opponents of the "go it alone" theory for American continuation of Korean war without United Nations support. Suppose the United States should go it alone to the extent of bombing Red air bases in Manchuria and Siberia.

Then suppose the Russians retaliated by a sneak bomb raid on some U. S. city like Seattle or Detroit. That would mean start of war between the United States and Russia.

European nations might say they wanted no part of any such struggle, in spite of North Atlantic Pact. And in such circumstances, the United States would have to fight the war without allies.

Might Be a Problem
You Chan Yang, new Korean ambassador to the United States, was a medical doctor in Hawaii, and had never held a diplomatic post until he was summoned back to Korea by President Syngman Rhee and given the appointment to Washington.

Dr. Yang was born in Pusan, but his parents fled to Hawaii to escape Japanese rule. He got his medical education in Boston.

In Washington, Dr. Yang is working to get support for the South Korean five-point peace plan. It calls for these terms: Chinese Communists must withdraw to Manchuria. North Korean Communists must be disarmed.

UN guarantee against any third power giving further aid to North Koreans. Representatives of Republic of Korea (South Korea) to sit in on any peace conference. No plan to be considered which does not include unification of all Korea.

Electric Battle
There's another big row brewing between public and private power advocates over celebration of "Rural Electrification Week," August 26. Celebration was conceived by private power companies.

Big theme was to be that expansion of electric power lines to rural areas has now made electricity available to 95 per cent of the country. Public power advocates are burned up because the celebration will play down Rural Electrification Administration's 15-year drive to bring electricity to the farms.

In 1935 only 750,000 farms had electricity. Today only 650,000 don't have electricity. Of those farms with power, 49 per cent are served by REA-government financed systems, 47 per cent by private power companies.

Beef from Ocean Ranges
Nineteen fleets—factory ships, tankers, refrigerator ships and swarms of fast "killer boats"—roamed the iceberg-studded, foggy seas off Antarctica last winter under the flags of Norway, England, South Africa, the Netherlands, Panama, Japan and Russia. Not a ship, however, flew the Stars and Stripes; America has not had a whaler in the Antarctic since 1940.

From whales come meal for fertilizer and animal food, glycerine for explosives, sperm oil for precision lubrication or cosmetics. Vitamins come from the liver, insulin and hormones from the glands, glue from the flippers. So valuable has Moby Dick become that without international protection, he soon would be as extinct as the dodo.

With sonar and radar, helicopters for scouting and even bombing whales, electrocution harpoons for quick killings and deep-freeze lockers for storing lean, red whale steaks, experts predict that the new era in whaling is just beginning.

Such a conference, third to be held since 1949 under the International Convention for the Regulation of Whaling, would have been unthinkable a century ago. In whaling's first golden age, the

African Safari With Bob Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK
GRUMMETTI CAMP, TANGANYIKA—The Swahili language is wonderfully descriptive of the beasts it names. Simba is perfect for lion. Faro is fine for rhino. Tembo fits an elephant as well as his tusks become him and chui covers leopard like his skin.

But the best and most descriptive of all is m'bogo, a terse, brutal word for a terse, brutal beast, the cape buffalo, a monstrous, vindictive animal of infinite capacity to kill you. His sight, hearing and sense of smell are acutely keen. He runs like an arrow, despite his 2,500 pounds. He is armor-plated with an inch-thick skin and insulated with muscle structure that can absorb impossible punishment from the heaviest bullets.

If you wound him he will lay in wait for you and charge you with his head up and his eyes open and his brain intent on killing you. If he is a good buffalo his horns, upcurling, are from 45 to 50 inches from tip to tip, and sharp as daggers. He chases you until he catches you and if he catches you he tosses you, and then he comes back and tramples you until there is nothing left but blood and tatters. The only way to stop him is to kill him because he won't quit. And he takes a lot of killing.

LIKES TO HUNT BUFFALO

My friend, Harry Selby, with whom I hunt, has a mad fascination for buffalo. He has been nearly killed four times, standing firm and shooting at ranges up to four feet. One wounded bull took 14 slugs up front before he died on Selby's boots. There is a personal feud between the man and the animal, which makes the animal beloved.

Harry loves the buff because he is hard to hunt and may kill Harry on any given instance unless Harry equalizes the power and violence with skill, caution and intelligence. And luck.

I am fascinated by m'bogo, too. But with a difference. I am scared limp of him. My stomach twists when I see him. I was so pitifully terrified that I figured I'd better shoot one, because a man can't go around being terrified forever. So I shot one, and I am now more frightened of m'bogo than before. Mine was not a record bull, being two inches short of the record requirements. But he was as big as they come, prime as to horn and body, and he's all the buffalo I need. Forty-three inches of horn can kill you just as dead as 50.

After three unsuccessful stalks across bog and high grass and close bush against a big herd and two lone, but badly horned bulls, we picked up two bulls with the binoculars and one looked good. We walked bent double over a few thousand yards of matted marsh and stinking mud, hiding behind tussocks and trees. The buff moved away from us, suspiciously, the big boy being told off by the littler one. It looked as though they were about to spook.

We dived behind a bush and Selby waited until some of the breath came back to me and then whispered, "It's too long a range but it's the best we'll get. Stand up and wallop him."

LOOKED LIKE CREDITOR

I stood up and there was m'bogo at 40 to 50 yards. I looked at m'bogo. M'bogo looked at me. He looked at me as if I owed him money. He looked at me as if I had murdered his entire family. He looked at me as if nothing in this world could give him more joy than a war dance on my carcass. He stretched that black snout at me and his horns were a mile wide. He was the ugliest, most fearsome sight I ever saw.

So I shot him. The whole world exploded, because my heavy .470 unaccountably loosed off both barrels. M'bogo went down like a stone, but I didn't see him. I stood there goofily with an empty gun, for a thousand light years, and then I heard another gun go off.

"I hope you didn't mind," Selby said apologetically, "but he was heading for the bush with the speed of knots and it's awful thick in there. So I thought I better break his back, even though we undoubtedly would have found him dead. I'm sure you got the heart, but you can't be certain."

M'bogo was flat, dying, bellowing. I helped him along with a slight brain injection. He was twice as ugly and terrible dead as before, the great head, the ticks on his scabby hide, but he was a magnificent prime bull, a mountain of muscle. When we took him apart Selby had been right. My bullet had got the heart. Five hundred grains of solid bullet, propelled by seventy-five grains of cordite, with a striking power of five thousand foot-pounds of energy, had cut his jugular, smashed his heart and major arteries, and wrecked his lungs, but he had gotten up and taken off as if I'd plinked him with a .22.

I looked a long time at m'bogo. Then I looked at Selby.

"No more m'bogo," I said. "One is more than enough for any man."

Forests Change In Lake States

Report Issued By Forest Service

Significant changes in forest conditions have occurred in parts of the Lake States region during the past 13 years according to a survey report released by the Lake States Forest Experiment Station on July 26. The report "Changes in Forest Conditions 1936-1949, North Central Minnesota and Upper Peninsula of Michigan" by R. N. Cunningham compares statistics from two forest surveys in which the station participated.

A favorable trend, recorded in both districts, has been a "thickening up" of seedling, sapling, and pole stands, largely a result of improved fire protection. Whereas half of the seedling and sapling stands and nearly two-thirds of the pole stands were recorded as poorly stocked in the first survey, the proportion poorly stocked dropped to 25 for seedling-sapling and 45 for poles in Minnesota. The improvement on restocking areas in Michigan was even greater.

An unfavorable trend, though, has been the sharp decline in old-growth saw timber in Upper Michigan. In this district the acreage of large saw timber declined from 1,093,000 acres in 1936 to about 518,000 acres currently, a drop of more than 50 per cent. Total volume of saw timber on all lands in the Upper Peninsula district declined approximately 45 per cent.

Mixed effects were indicated as regards acreage of virtually non-restocking land. The acreage declined sharply in Michigan where northern hardwood forests predominate. It increased somewhat in the Minnesota district where pine and swamp types were involved.

Driver Studies Curb Automobile Accidents

EVANSTON, Ill.—The unmarked police car may catch you if you don't watch your driving.

James S. Baker, director of research at the Traffic Institute, Northwestern University, says the taxpayer would profit by the practice. Highway police in Indiana are testing the idea.

"If you send a cat out with a bell on its neck it won't catch many mice," Baker said.

There were 35,000 persons killed in auto accidents in the U. S. last year. There are 50 million automobiles on U. S. highways today.

With congestion getting worse instead of better, Baker said, the Institute is seeking ways to save lives at minimum cost. It is doing this by teaching traffic police to patrol with more work done for the taxpayer's dollar.

With three out of four fatal accidents due to driver failure, better driver licensing methods are under study. A course in examining drivers was recently conducted for examiners from 25 states. The tuition was sponsored by the Farmers Insurance Group Safety Foundation, Los Angeles, Calif.

Baker told the examiners that the patrolman isn't earning his keep unless he turns in at least 30 traffic violations a month. Physical ability, driver skill, knowledge and attitude play an important part in how a driver behaves behind the wheel.

"Therefore, the best buy in traffic law enforcement to reduce highway deaths 10 to 20 per cent is in the field of proper driver licensing," Baker said.

Here's how Baker would handle the problem:

1. More detailed examinations of first applicants for driver licenses.

BLINDERS like these help J. S. Baker check handicap of drivers with narrow field of vision.

2. Examine the older driver every three years.
3. Follow up on the repeaters of accidents and violations; either improve them or get them off the roads.

Hard Liquor Drinking Increased In Michigan

LANSING — (AP) — Michigan folks drank 17.65 per cent more "hard" liquor in the past year, or a total of 8,147,758 gallons.

That's almost one and a third gallons per person for every man, woman and child, according to the state liquor control commission figures.

The commission said sales of distilled spirits in the past 12 months were 1,222,082 gallons more than in the preceding fiscal year.

Wine consumption fell 7.55 per cent, down 139,419 gallons to 1,707,100 gallons.

Blind Woman, 71, Tells Of Orphanage Escape To Wed W. C. Fields

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — A 71-year old Chicago blind woman, testifying in her suit for a widow's share of the late comedian W. C. Fields' $771,428 estate told the court she escaped from an orphanage in a laundry truck, met Fields and married him in New York City, June 24, 1893.

The testimony was given yesterday by Mrs. Edith Williams, who was blinded 11 years ago in a traffic accident. She said she met Fields in 1893 when he advertised for a vaudeville partner. She said he was using the name of Billy Ward then.

"He said he would take me on as his leading lady," Mrs. Williams testified. "I said I was only 13 and some policeman would get us, but he said that would be all right if we were married. A few days later, when he was at the orphanage, he called on me, posing as my uncle, and it was then that we made the arrangements for my escape."

Mrs. Harriet Fields, whom the comic married in 1900, established claims to half the estate as community property. She is contesting the claim of Mrs. Williams, who alleged she bore Fields seven children.

Fields died Christmas morning, 1946.

No. 13: Be Wary Of A Car
Passing A Car Coming Toward You.

A car coming toward you and passing another car on a two lane highway places you in jeopardy. Slow down so that if he makes a mistake he can enjoy his accident all by himself.

When an oncoming car approaching you behind another car and you can tell from its position that the driver is considering passing and you know that he hasn't enough distance in which to make it, then do something to talk him out of the idea.

Blow your horn, blink your headlights and even pull right and put two wheels on the shoulder. This usually gets over the idea that an emergency is impending and the other driver may conclude that he had better not attempt to pass.

Great Stone Faces Of Rushmore Draw 750,000 Each Year

By HAL BOYLE
MOUNT RUSHMORE, S. D.—(AP)—Four great stone faces of America's past look serenely out across the mountain here.

And each year nearly 750,000 living Americans come to stare up at this quartet of their national heroes, fixed forever in granite.

It took $900,000 and it killed a great sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, to put these great stone faces on a 6,000-foot peak in the Black Hills. The faces are of four American presidents. Reading from left to right, they are George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Theodore Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln.

Tourists Confused
Each measures 60 feet from chin to forehead, the height of a five story building.

The gigantic faces would break into big stone grins if they could hear the remarks of some tourists, confused at their identity. The children are often better than their parents at naming all four correctly. Almost all the visitors recognize Lincoln and Washington.

But several have stared up at Roosevelt and demanded: "How did Tom Dewey get up there?"

Oddly, Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence and bought this whole area from France in the Louisiana purchase, is the most confusing. Many guess him to be President Monroe or President Madison.

And it is a wonder that Jefferson didn't blush at one wife who told her questioning husband:

"The one next to Washington? You're a college graduate, John, and you mean to tell me you don't recognize Martha Washington?"

The tourists are always impressed by such facts about the memorial as:

The nose of Washington is longer than the entire head of the sphinx. If turned upside down and filled with water, six men could swim comfortably in it.

If completed, the figures would be 465 feet tall from toe to crown. The sparkle in Lincoln's eye is a 30-inch-long granite block.

A man could stand erect in Jefferson's eyeball.

One question almost every tourist asks is, "How long will it last?"

The age of the memorial—it is named after Charles E. Rushmore, a mining engineer—was fixed by geologists at nearly 1,500,000,000 years. They have estimated the memorial would erode at the rate of an inch every 100,000 years.

Most tourists, probably Democrats, feel they put the wrong president Roosevelt on the mountain, and want to know when F. D. R.'s face will make a quintet of the quartet. The answer of most natives:

"Never—as long as South Dakota votes Republican."

Dream Kills Sculptor
The memorial, first proposed in 1924 by Doane Robinson, a historian, was actively opposed by many leading Dakota citizens, they liked their Black Hills as they were. They didn't want them turned into a mountain art gallery.

But Sculptor Borglum took up the dream. He wanted to put a part of the American story in stone as a rebuke to future "selfish, coveting civilizations." And he wanted his monumental carvings placed so high they would never be pulled down "for lesser purposes." He wanted them "as close to heaven as we can," where they would endure "until the wind and the rain alone shall wear them away."

His heart, weakened by years of work in high altitude, failed in 1941. But his task was largely done. Today Mount Rushmore is a national shrine. Visitors who come to see it now spend millions annually in South Dakota, the state that at first rejected Borglum's great dream.

Farmers' Round-Up
Has Much To Offer Homemakers

Farmers' Round-Up, Friday, August 3, at the Upper Peninsula Experiment Station, Chatham, will offer homemakers many interesting features, says Russell E. Morwood, station superintendent.

Always of interest to the farm women are the home gardening tips offered in the tours of the horticulture plots. Actual field trials of a number of new varieties of fruits and vegetables will be shown.

A demonstration of poultry grading and boxing for commercial sale or freezing will be a highlight of the morning poultry exhibit. The Chatham chicken flock featuring January-hatched Hampshire pullets in production in a summer laying house and year-around laying house, will demonstrate ways to achieve high production when prices are best.

The home economics program in the afternoon, to be held in the girls' lounge of Camp Shaw, will present a talk "Geology and Homemaking" by Miss Helen Martin of the Michigan Department of Conservation. The popular talk is illustrated with slides.

The day-long Round-Up program will offer features for the whole family. For this reason, many families bring their own basket lunch to enjoy in the orchard at noon.

The Chatham 4-H Club and Homemakers' stand will offer light lunches of pasties, hot dogs, and beverages and a limited number of lunches will be served at near-by Camp Shaw.

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Fashion Editor
Ever since George Washington's day, the tricorn has been a perennial hat favorite, bobbing up from time to time as women rediscover its flattering lines.

This year is a tricorn year, as indicated by the fall showing of the Millinery Creators Guild, which presented the perky three-cornered hats in all sizes and all degrees of formality.

You'll be seeing them in hatter's plush, in draped velvet, in felt and velours, sometimes trimmed with feathers, sometimes with sequins, usually with a small mask veil.

This seems to be the first definite trend discernible in a millinery season notable thus far for varied dramatic silhouettes by individual designers.

Final Films In Series Shown

Club Members See 'In Our Hands'

The final two films of the picture series, "In Our Hands," was presented at the regular meeting of the Manistique Lions club Tuesday night.

The series comprised four films, the first two of which were shown at a previous club meeting. The picture was shown under the auspices of the Inland Lime and Stone company, and Donald Ott, of the Inland staff, operated the projector and led the discussion period which followed each film.

The series also has been shown to the Manistique Rotary club and to other groups in the community.

The pictures are patriotic in purpose and endeavor to show, in a simple, understandable manner, how the United States became the great, progressive nation it is.

The films also reveal how the nation could lose what it has, how it could barter its freedom for the dubious benefits of a master state, and what must be done by alert people to prevent the country from slipping into national socialism.

Various problems facing the nation were discussed by club members at the conclusion of the final film. Among these were communism, excessive taxation, civil rights, the encroachment of federal power into state and local government, the weakening of the American spirit of self-reliance, and the problems of minorities.

Sgt. Leonard Mulhaupt, recently returned from the Korean war front, was present at the meeting, the first he has attended since he left for military service last fall. Mulhaupt is a former president of the club.

Effort To Have Coast Guard Assign Cutter To Manistique Fails

Efforts of the Garden Peninsula Lions club to have a coast guard cutter permanently assigned to Manistique harbor have met with no success. It is revealed in letters received from a Congressman Charles E. Potter and United States Senator Homer Ferguson.

Both Washington legislators discussed the request with United States Coast Guard officials. In replying to the Manistique and Garden clubs, the legislators enclosed letters from coast guard officials rejecting the plea for additional lake protection in the Manistique area and stating that existing services and facilities were considered adequate. Any expansion of service was barred by budgetary limitations, coast guard officials said.

A resolution was adopted several weeks ago by the Garden club stressing the need for additional lake protection in this area and recommending that a cutter be permanently assigned to Manistique harbor, which is ice-free the year around. Copies of the resolution were distributed to several Lions clubs on the northern shore of Lake Michigan, and also to various municipal governments.

The Manistique club joined with the Garden group in supporting the resolution and forwarding it to Michigan congressional representatives and coast guard officials. Attached to each resolution was a statistical statement on Lake Michigan shipping and commercial fishing in the area between Nautinway and Nahma.

Despite the initial rejection of the proposal by the coast guard service, the Manistique Lions club at its regular meeting Tuesday night decided to continue the effort to provide greater protection for shipping in the Manistique and Garden area, particularly in the winter months when the nearest coast guard cutter might be unable to reach this area because of ice in the Straits of Mackinac.

Howard Hewitt, club secretary, was instructed to contact the Garden club and make arrangements for a continuation of the program.

Charles Beauvais Wed Recently To Pennsylvania Girl

Announcement was made here yesterday of the recent marriage of Miss Jeannette Swartly Rosenberger, of Doylestown, Pa., to Charles Vaughan Beauvais, of Allegan, Mich.

Mr. Beauvais is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Beauvais, former residents of Manistique, and a brother of Mrs. Carl Carlson, 222 Range street. The elder Beauvais was Manistique city manager for several years.

Following account of the wedding is taken from the Doylestown Intelligencer:

A very lovely wedding ceremony took place in St. Paul's Episcopal church Saturday evening, June 30, when Miss Jeannette Swartly Rosenberger, county seat artist and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. John Rosenberger, of Belmont avenue, became the bride of Charles Vaughan Beauvais, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Beauvais, of Allegan, Michigan.

The double ring service was used by Rev. Frank Damosch, and the white carpeted church was charming with mixed white flowers and clobium ferns on the altar and blossoms and ribbons tying the pews.

As 250 guests assembled for the ceremony, a program of organ music was presented by Miss Mary Manely.

Miss Rosenberger, who was escorted to the chancel by her father, was lovely in candlelight satin, designed with long tapering sleeves, an off-the-shoulder neckline, filled in with yoke of illusion net, and the full skirt flared to form a train. Her veil of fingertip length was of tulle, held in place with bands of satin, and her bouquet was of Madonna lilies and lilies-of-the-valley, in cascade effect, similar to the one her mother carried as a bride.

There were six attendants, Miss Cintra Jones, of Roscommon, as honor maid; Mrs. Edward Beauvais, of Manistique, Mich., as matron of honor, and Miss Mary Beauvais, of Allegan, Mich., sister of the groom; Miss Phyllis McCaughan, of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. Seville Schofield, Jr., of Narberth, and Miss Janet Ruos, of Church street here, as bridesmaids.

All were gowned in lovely

New Sanitarian Is Engaged Here

Walter Charles Takes Over Duties

Walter Joseph Charles, of Hancock, has been engaged as sanitarian of the Alger-Schoolcraft health department, succeeding Raymond LaFave who resigned several months ago, it is announced by A. W. Heitman, lay director of the department.

Charles took over his new duties last week.

The new sanitarian was graduated from Michigan College of Mining and Technology in March, 1950, and subsequently took a year's postgraduate course there, majoring in sanitation.

During the four weeks prior to his coming to Manistique, Charles took a field training course in sanitation at Coldwater, Mich. The course was conducted by the Michigan department of health.

During the interval since LaFave's resignation, sanitation needs of the two counties were handled by a non-resident sanitarian who spent approximately five days monthly in each county.

white embroidered organza over pink taffeta. The honor attendants carried bouquets of rubrum lilies, delphinium and ivy, with matching wreaths of blossoms in their hair and the bridesmaids carried sweetheart roses and polka-dot geraniums with matching wreaths.

Edward W. Beauvais, of Manistique, Mich., served his brother as best man, and ushers included Kyle Bunch, of Philadelphia; Thawley D. Hayman, of Doylestown; John Rosenberger, brother of the bride, and Thomas Althouse, of Richlandtown.

A reception at the Doylestown country club for 250 guests followed immediately after the ceremony. Following a wedding trip to Cape Ann and Rock Port, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Beauvais will reside in Harbor Springs, Mich., where the groom teaches.

The bride, a popular member of the younger set, and who has won quite a bit of acclaim for her paintings, graduated from the Doylestown high school in 1946, from Greenbrier college, West Virginia, in 1948, and has been attending the School of Fine Arts in Philadelphia.

Mr. Beauvais graduated from Michigan State college and served in the European theatre with the Army for three years.

Master Plan For Quarry Area Is Recommended By Recreation Consultant

A master plan for the development of Manistique's quarry pool area was recommended here yesterday by John Collier, of Ypsilanti, district representative of the National Recreation association.

Collier, who operates as a recreational consultant out of the Toledo office of the association, said that the community is taking an indecisive attitude toward development of the area, with no one knowing exactly what should be done.

An over-all plan made by competent recreational engineers, he said, would provide a blue-print for the efficient development of the area, and would end the indecision which characterizes current thinking about the site.

Such a plan would provide expert opinion on whether the pool itself was suitable for a swimming area or whether it should be completely or partially filled with sand, he stated. It also would answer questions regarding the need for fencing the pool and would establish the most advantageous sites in the area for playing fields, bandshell tennis courts or any other proposed recreational development, he declared.

As it is now, he said, no one knows authoritatively what type of development is best or where the best sites are for recreational activities.

Collier pointed out that the city of Manistique utilized the services of engineers in laying out a master plan for recreation development. The city, he said, spent about $500 in grading the area, and each individual development in the playground was handled and financed by various service clubs and private individuals. "Once they had a plan they knew what needed to be done," he said.

Collier provides recreational consultant service to communities in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, and during his visit here yesterday he conferred with T. H. Reque, local recreation director.

The National Recreation association is a non-profit organization devoted to providing a clearing house for recreation information and furnishing a recreational consultant service. It is financed by private gifts and by community memberships, and receives no federal aid. The association was formed in 1906 under encouragement from President Theodore Roosevelt. Its consulting service is free.

Collier conferred with recreation officials in Menominee Monday and in Escanaba Tuesday. From Manistique he was scheduled to go to Marquette.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed McGee and family, of Benzonia, Mich., have returned home after visiting here for a few days at the Carl Anderson and Edwin Nylander homes.

Gould City Man Jailed On Drunk Driving Charge

Bernard Napont, 40, of the Gould City area, is serving a 30-day sentence in the Schoolcraft county jail on a drunken driving charge.

He was arraigned Tuesday in local justice court and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 plus costs of $3.75 or spend 30 days in jail. He was remanded to jail but will be released if the fine and costs are paid.

He was arrested by city police on Deer street on July 22.

About 10 days ago Napont paid a fine and costs of $8 in local court following a property damage accident here.

Munising Physician Named Director Of Health Department

Dr. R. A. Tearnan, Munising physician and surgeon, has been appointed full time director of the Alger-Schoolcraft health department, it was announced yesterday by A. W. Heitman, one of the two acting lay directors of the department.

The appointment is effective Wednesday, August 1.

Decision to engage Dr. Tearnan as director was made at a meeting of the two-county health committee last week. The committee also decided to continue operating the department as a two-county unit, with neither Alger nor Schoolcraft counties affiliating with another established unit for the present time, Heitman said.

It was not reported whether Dr. Tearnan would move to Manistique, where the headquarters of the unit is located, or continue to reside in Munising. He has been engaged in private medical practice in the Alger city for several years.

Since the resignation of Dr. E. J. Brenner as part time director of the health department last fall, the unit has been under the supervision of two lay directors, with Elson Carberry, Munising's mayor, handling Alger county and Heitman directing department activities in Schoolcraft county.

In deciding to continue with the two-county unit, the health committee provided for a director at a suggested salary of $8,000 yearly; two staff nurses, one for each county at $3,000 each; a sanitarian for the two counties at $3,600; two clerks, one for each county, at $2,200 each; travel expense of $4,000; and $1,330.50 for office expense.

The anticipated revenue is: Federal sources, $4,915; state, $8,640; Schoolcraft county, $7,329.88; Alger county $5,245.62.

Heitman explained that reserves in the health fund now would carry the local expense of the unit for two years without extra funds.

The Alger-Schoolcraft unit was established July 1, 1937, and now serves a population of 18,980 and an area of 2,112 square miles.

White Pine Logging Days Colorful Era In History

(This is a continuation of a series of articles on early days in the Manistique area.)

(By W. S. CROWE)

I have two wonderful daughters who are in complete agreement and thorough harmonious record on one subject—Dad. "Dad shouldn't do that." "Dad ought to do this." "Dad should sleep an hour after meals." "Dad is just like a mule." "Nobody can tell Dad anything." (to which last I take exception, because somebody told me everything I know).

The reason for this little digression from the main thread of these articles is that one of these charming daughters wrote that she liked my "lumberjack" article, but was afraid I might "antagonize people" and "date myself" by "running down the present," and in case others might have the same idea, I will say that I have no intention of "running down the present" which I think is the most wonderful time in history.

These articles, (about finished), are an attempt to portray a true picture of life in the "horse and buggy" days in Manistique, a town on Lake Michigan in the Upper Peninsula, and are based entirely on my own experience and observation, and without distortion; but to convey to the present generation a true picture and perspective of the past, comparison with the present is sometimes necessary.

Truth Is Eternal

And I cannot "date myself" by telling the truth, because the truth is never "outdated." Truth is eternal and time is not a factor.

And when I say we had no unemployment insurance because there was work for everybody who wanted to work; no "social security" because we felt secure; no old age pensions because families took care of the few old folks unable to care for themselves; that we had to think for ourselves because we had no commentators to think for us; that we had no government bureaus to plan our lives but had to plan them ourselves; that the people themselves pay for all the benefits they receive from government, plus government overhead costs; that we didn't feel called upon to police the world; that we didn't fear communism or any other "ism" of which there have always been plenty; that we never received state or federal aid to teach children how to slide down a toboggan, or to build an ice rink on the sloping Court House grounds from which the water ran off before it could freeze, I am not "running down the present," but simply stating facts.

And if Mr. DiSalle wants to try something, (price control by government decree), which Hammarabi, a very able administrator tried 4200 years ago, and, altho he had the power of life and death over his subjects, gave up when he only succeeded in stopping production, creating scarcities and an automobile black market, then it is Mr. DiSalle who is "dating himself," not me.

I believe in "social gains," but I also believe, and think I can prove, that we could have these and many more "social gains" at far less cost, and a balanced United States budget and no fear of inflation, but that is another story.

Lumberjacks Colorful

With this little digression settled to the satisfaction of all concerned, let us get back to the main theme of our story.

Manistique, being an almost 100 per cent pure lumber town in the colorful white pine days, the story is mostly about lumberacks, woods, big sawmills, and lake shipping, and being book-keeper for one of the largest lumber companies during the seven years when the industry was at its peak, I had splendid opportunity for first hand observation.

And there was no more colorful or interesting and exciting segment of American life than the lumber industry, or a more picturesque individual than the old time lumberjack and river driver. They were in direct contact and conflict with Mother Nature in the raw, the only other comparable industry in this respect being the cattle ranches of the great plains and the western cowboy and as I lived for two years on a cattle ranch in Colorado before coming to Michigan, I had good opportunities to get first hand impressions of both the "lumberjack" and the western "cowpuncher."

A more completely different stage, background and environment could hardly be imagined than the immense pine forests and the treeless, seemingly endless plains, or two more different individuals than the cowboy and the lumberjack. A cowboy would have been "lost" almost at once in the great pine forests, and a lumberjack would have been "lost" even more quickly on the rolling treeless plains.

People Are Same

But although environments and ways of life differ, people are fundamentally about the same wherever you find them, and the cowboys and the lumberjacks had the same spirit of daring, resourcefulness, initiative, and independence and romance bred by close contact with nature at her best and worst in a vast free country.

One thing common to cowboy and lumberjack was the similarity of cattle brands and log marks. The Weston Lumber Company's "Barred O," and "Circle O" were duplicated on the cattle ranges, and a big western ranch's "Cob House" brand was exactly the same as the Chicago Lumbering Company's "Cob House" log mark.

So far we have dealt largely with the lumberjacks, river drivers, and the woods operations. In the next installment of this story, I will try and picture the saw mills, lumber yards, and shipping activities, and conditions in Manistique when it was just a humming lumber town.

With Ray Crandall

When Iron River makes its second bid in three years for the Upper Michigan American Legion Junior baseball title here next Saturday, Coach Hoyt Fern will no doubt send his ace lefty, Roland Pearson, to the hill in the opening game. . . . Two years ago this same Pearson, then a skinny ninth-grader, came to Escanaba to pitch in the 1949 championship tourney against Menominee.

The 15-year-old southpaw entered the title series with quite a pitching reputation. . . . He had just held L'Anse, Stambaugh and Crystal Falls to a total of 17 hits in three games, fanned 26 men and walked only three. . . . In the district championship game against Crystal Falls he came in during the third inning with the bases loaded and the score tied 2-2. . . . He retired the side and tossed three-hit ball the rest of the game to post his third win.

What happened when Iron River faced Menominee in the championship series here, most Iron River fans would like to forget. . . . Pearson pegged magnificent ball, allowing only two hits while fanning eight and walking three. . . . But the Iron River defense collapsed like a pin-pricked balloon and committed nine errors. . . . Menominee won the game 7-2.

If Al Ness, Escanaba Cubs coach, opens the series with his ace righthander, Jack Chriske, a fine pitching duel should develop. . . . In that case, both teams would have a no-hit, no-run chucker to work in the afternoon game at 4 o'clock. . . . Dickie Dunk of Iron River and Fred Boddy of Escanaba entered Junior Legion hall of fame with no-hit, no-run masterpieces in the championship games of their respective district tournaments. . . . Anyway you look at it, the title tourney here next weekend promises to be a pitchers' battle with hits at a premium.

The New York Giants hooked onto their fourth Upper Peninsula baseball player in the past two years Monday when they signed Dick Richardson, Niagara, to a minor league contract. . . . Richardson, a catcher, batted .315 in three seasons on the Niagara high school team and .500 with the American Legion club. . . . He is currently catching for the Niagara entry in the Northern Wisconsin-Michigan league. . . . Ray Lucas, Giant scout, said the Niagara youth will report to Florida for spring training next March. . . . Lucas had previously signed Dick Lough of Escanaba and Bob Schultz of Kingsford last season and Russ Hiltonen of Escanaba this season.

Cubs Tune Up With 5-3 Bark River Win

The Escanaba Cubs tuned up for their Upper Peninsula Junior Legion championship series slated Saturday against Iron River by registering a 5-3 Waubesa league win over Bark River here yesterday.

The Cubs were apparently coasting to a 5-0 shutout when Bark River exploded with three runs in the sixth. Three errors, two walks and a single by Second Baseman Taylor turned the trick.

Tip Larmay opened on the Cub mound and scattered four hits up into the seventh inning when he tired. Southpaw Fred Boddy came in with two men on and one out to fan the next two batters

Fear Newhouser Lost To Tigers

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(P)—The troubles of the Detroit Tigers mounted today as they squared off for another game with the Washington Senators in a battle for the second-division leadership in the American League.

With the pitching staff falling apart, the Senators mauled four Tiger hurlers for 14 hits yesterday for a 7-4 triumph.

And now it looks as if Detroit's ace southpaw, Hal Newhouser, will be out of action indefinitely. He has been bothered with a sore arm for six weeks.

HAROLD NEWHOUSER
Detroit Tiger's Pitcher

Looked Bad

Newhouser pitched in batting practice before the game yesterday. The test was disappointing.

"He didn't look good at all," Manager Red Rolfe said. "It doesn't look like he'll be able to pitch at all during this eastern trip. When he'll pitch again is very, very indefinite."

Newhouser, who has a record so far this season of six wins and six losses, first complained of a sore arm during a game against the New York Yankees June 15. He walked off the mound after working four innings. He didn't pitch again until July 4 when he worked the distance in beating the Chicago White Sox. After the victory, he complained of shoulder pains. Since then he has pitched only one and one-third innings and hasn't worked at all for 11 days.

Same Last Year

A similar injury bothered Newhouser in 1950. He didn't pitch at all during the first six weeks of the season. He had a record of 15 victories and 13 losses for the season. But he's still one of the game's highest paid pitchers with a salary reported to be around $42,000.

Washington pitcher Don Johnson posted his second straight victory over the Tigers. He had blanked them on three hits 10 days ago. He gave up eight hits yesterday but had things his own way after a shaky start.

The Tigers reached Johnson for three runs in the first inning on George Kell's double, a walk to Charley Keller, Pat Mullin's single, and Johnny Groth's single. They got another run in the ninth on Joe Ginsberg's triple and Jerry Priddy's infield out.

Bears Nip Stephenson By 3-1 Under Lights

The Escanaba Bears last night chalked up a 3-1 exhibition decision over the Stephenson Tri-County club under the Sawbridge field lights at Stephenson.

Manager Phil Brazeau toed the slab for the league-leading Bears and turned in a creditable job. He allowed only four hits, two in the fourth and two in the sixth, fanned seven and walked only two men.

Brazeau sent the Stephenson boys down in order in the first, second, third, fifth, seventh, eighth and ninth innings, facing only 31 batters.

Long Homer

Stephenson scored first in the sixth to break a scoreless knot. Busick led off with a double and Tebo was safe on an error at first base. Busick was cut down at third base but Wagner drew a walk and Martin singled, sending Tebo home with Stephenson's lone run.

The Bears climbed ahead in the seventh when Joe Ricci, left fielder, belted a tremendous homer over the right fielder's head. Brazeau, who led off with a double, scored on the homer which was the longest hit at the Stephenson field this season.

Brazeau singled in the eighth and added the final Bear run when he scored from second on a single off the bat of Dean Bailey, second baseman.

Ricci's two singles and homer paced the Bears at the plate.

Packer Fullback Problem Solved

Ronzani Believes He Has Answer

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The Green Bay Packers won't lack for yards from fullback next fall. Head Coach Gene Ronzani is sure of that.

The fullback production last fall was slightly below par for a T-formation team. Jack Cloud, the belting fullback fresh out of William and Mary, hurt his knee early in the campaign and didn't recuperate until the year was about finished. Tony Canadeo, a halfback by trade, found the going tough for his 188 pounds at full while Ted Fritsch failed to show the form that once stunned the league.

Cloud Heads List

In a month or so, Ronzani expects to prove that the one weak link last fall, fullback, is no longer weak. Heading the group is a "new" Cloud. Jack underwent surgery last winter to correct his ailing knee and the powerful built speed demon is in town already getting into condition.

Backing up Cloud will be Fred Cone, a 200-pound dynamite from Clemson—up for his first season, and rookie Alton Green, a promising youngster from Abilene Christian. Green led AC in ground gaining and scoring in his last two seasons. His coaches call him a "sure bet" for pro stardom.

Also in the fullback race will be 220-pound Fritsch who is returning for his 10th season. Another possibility is Gene Roberts, the versatile New York Giants back who was obtained in a trade this week. Roberts, however, is undecided on playing next season.

Rooks Is Rookie

Strictly a "darkhorse" at this stage is George Rooks, the 215-pound colored fullback from Morgan State. The scouts tabbed Rooks as another Marion Motley but Rooks is still untried.

Ronzani has three or four other fullbacks who also play the half-back slots. Among these are Monto Charles of Hillsdale (Mich.) College, Dick Christie of Omaha, Harry DeLoach of the University of South Carolina and Rube Ralsch of Lewis and Clark.

Little Leaguers Tune Up With Two Victories

The Little League all-stars, who left this morning for the state championship tournament at Midland, warmed up for the meet with a pair of wins yesterday over two Manistique teams.

The Escanaba youngsters won 13-1 and 26-1 in an abbreviated doubleheader at Manistique. They pounded out 28 hits in the two contests.

Escanaba mound duties were shared by Bucky Flath, Charlie McCarthy and Rick Erickson. Gary Paler, Little League ace, did not make the trip but was left behind to rest up for the important state meet.

No Names Rally For S-Ball Win

Score Six Runs In Seventh Inning

The No Names put on an old-fashioned final inning rally last night to defeat Clairmont Transfer 8-3 in the feature softball game at Memorial field.

Trailing 3-2 going into the first of the seventh, the No Names exploded with six runs. Key hit was an inside-the-park homer by Catcher Angie Hirn with the bases loaded.

Ike Eis pitched four-hit ball to card his seventh win for the American league team. Joe Sullivan went the distance for the losers. Arnold LaBay, catcher, smacked a double and a triple for half of the Clairmont hits.

White Birch Wins

Mrs. Dorothy Stienhausen of Escanaba was presented with a team jacket by the No Names as winner of a recent contest to select a name for the team.

In the preliminary White Birch blanked Power & Light 4-0. Franny Lancour allowed five hits but did not issue a walk as he went the distance for the winners. Harry Lancour caught.

Fitzpatrick and Courneene shared the Power & Light hit with Bud Keneally catching. White Birch had four hits.

White Birch will be host to the Bancroft Dairy team of Marquette next Sunday night at Memorial field.

In the National league last night it was Cliff Larsen all over again for Al's Tavern. Cliff bettered his previous night's performance as he allowed only three hits and fanned 14 while his mates were pounding out an 11-0 win over St. Ann's.

Chuck Gagner, Al's catcher, provided Larsen with enough to coast on when he belted a homer as leadoff man in the first inning. Beaudoin and LaFave made up the losing battery.

St. Thomas downed Escanaba Township 10-5 with George Bartley and Bob Tromby providing homers. Roger Tourangeau homered for the losers.

Karkkainen Tryout Is Slated Tonight

Mel Karkkainen, Escanaba Bear fireballer, is slated for a minor league baseball tryout this evening at Green Bay.

Karkkainen left this afternoon with Manager Phil Brazeau and White Sox scout Bill Ranquette. He will perform for Ira Hutchinson, manager of the Wisconsin Rapids team which faces Green Bay in a Wisconsin State league game tonight.

Wisconsin Rapids is a White Sox farm club.

Biggie Munn Will Leave For Hawaii

EAST LANSING—(P)—A Hawaiian trip was announced today for Michigan State football coach Biggie Munn—just back from a tour of Europe.

Munn was one of a group of coaches that visited army installations in Germany to help set up coaching schools for the occupation forces.

He will leave Lansing Friday with his son, Mike, 10, for the Hawaiian Islands. Munn will direct a series of coaching clinics on four of the islands and will return Aug. 15 in time to prepare for the opening football practice in September.

Indian Warwhoop Empty Echo In Yank Wigwam

By JACK HAND

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If Cleveland wins the American league pennant, they'll never believe it in Yankee stadium. The tribal warwhoop is only an empty echo in the Yanks' concrete wigwam on the Harlem where Cleveland has lost 13 straight ball games since July 14, 1950.

It was the same story last summer. After that shocking series in Boston where the Indians blew 7-0 and 12-1 leads, Cleveland staggered into the Yankee stadium to lose four in a row. They came to town two games out of first place and finished up 5½ behind in fourth place. That was the fatal blow.

Lose Eight Straight

Failure to whip the Yanks in New York has been almost as costly this season. They've dropped eight straight in '51 with only three to play.

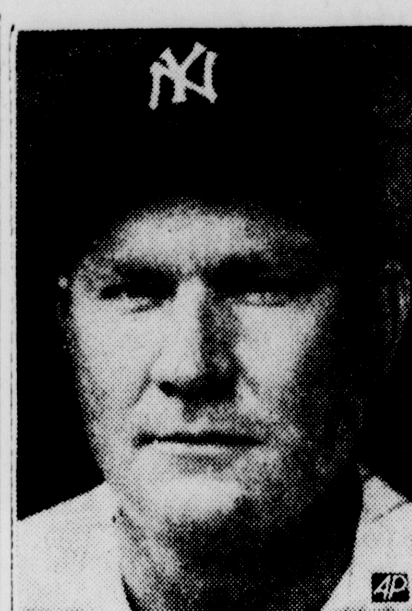

Big John Mize was the villain in the Indians' current disaster. His eighth-inning homer won the opener Tuesday, 3-2, and his ninth-inning double punched home both runs of yesterday's 2-1 verdict over tough luck Mike Garcia.

Because Chicago snapped its five-game losing streak and whipped Boston at Fenway park, 6-2, the Yankees opened up a full game lead on the Red Sox. Cleveland is another game back and the White Sox are 3½ off the pace.

Bums Stretch Lead

In sharp contrast to this wild struggle, the National remains a Brooklyn waltz with the Dodgers, 6-2 winners over Chicago, now nine full games in front of New York which won a June 17 "suspended game" from Pittsburgh, 7-6 in 10 innings but lost the regularly scheduled contest, 5-4.

Garcia pitched a fine game against the Yanks, holding a 1-0 lead over Eddie Lopat going to the ninth. Then that man Mize did his stuff.

Gil McDougald opened the Yankee ninth with a single. Garcia mowed down Gene Woodling and Joe DiMaggio. Yogi Berra kept the game alive by singling McDougald to third.

Mize sliced a hump backed hit to short left that Bob Kennedy leaped but couldn't hold as the ball splattered off his fingers. Before he could retrieve it, McDougald and Berra scored the tying and winning runs.

Holcombe Bests Bosox

Ken Holcombe, easy working Chicago righthander, tamed the Red Sox right in Fenway park with a five hitter to pull the White Sox out of their tailspin.

Don Lenhardt, the ex-Brownie, smashed a three-run homer off Mel Parnell in the sixth to nullify a 1-0 Boston lead. Parnell gave up another run in the seventh and Chicago got to Walt Masterson and Harry Taylor for one each in the last two innings to nail it down.

Ned Garver won No. 13 for the last-place St. Louis Browns who have taken only 28 all season. The talented righthander held Philadelphia to seven hits for a 5-4 edge in a night game at Shibe park.

Preacher Roe, edging toward his first 20-game year, won his 14th by downing Chicago, 6-2. It was the 12th complete game for the Dodgers' ace lefty.

Gil Hodges, back on the home run beam with his second in two days after an 18-day slump, slugged Bob Rush for No. 30 in the second inning. The blow put him even with Babe Ruth's record pace for 91 games (including one Dodger tie).

Name Players For All-Star Football Game At Negaunee

All-state halfback Mickey McMahon of Iron River heads the list of backfield selections for the South squad in the sixth annual all-star football game to be held in Negaunee Saturday, Aug. 11.

John Arnott, Menominee speed merchant, was added to the list of South backfield selections announced today by Ed Stephens, game director. Arnott had been working in Nebraska and was a late addition to the squad which will be coached by Mickey McCormick, former Menominee mentor.

Double-Cross In Cage Fix Is Revealed By Officials

NEW YORK — (P)—Two fixers in the latest college basketball scandal were in protective custody and a dragnet was out for one of their accomplices, a principal in a fantastic, double-cross among gamblers.

District Attorney Frank Hogan, who yesterday revealed that a sixth school-Toledo university—was involved in the sordid, mushrooming scandal, told the story of the double-cross.

It involved Nick Englis, his brother Tony, New York contact man; Jack (Zip) West, a former Dutch Schultz associate, and Eli Kaye, the master fixer.

Seeking West The Englis brothers are in protective custody. West is the object of the police search. Kaye is free in $50,000 bail on a charge of fixing City College of New York games last season.

Here is Hogan's story of the double-cross: Kaye assigned Nick Englis, a former University of Kentucky football player, to the Bradley university team. Englis not only paid frequent visits to the Peoria, Ill., campus, but at one time rode in the same train compartment with all-America Gene Melchiorre, who along with four of his teammates has admitted participating in game-fixing during the 1949-50 season.

Before each Bradley game, Nick would telephone his brother in New York, who would relay the details of the fix to West. West paid $1,000 for the information. The West-Englis arrangement was unknown to Kaye.

Double-Cross

Bradley was favored by six or seven points against St. Joseph's in Philadelphia, and the deal was that Melchiorre and his team would win by a narrow margin.

West was let in on the deal, but when Kaye found considerable money was being bet on St. Joseph's, he decided that the word must have leaked out and that there was a double-cross on.

Accordingly, Kaye told Nick they would switch their bets. Kaye then relayed his new instructions to the Bradley players—that they were supposed to win by more than the point spread. Nick called his brother in New York, who told West of the switch. But West said he couldn't change his bets.

West and two of his men took Tony to the West apartment in Brooklyn, and, holding him prisoner, instructed him to call convention hall in Philadelphia where the game was being played, and talk to his brother.

Switch Plans

Tony did, telling Nick his life was being threatened. Nick dashed to the convention hall floor, caught Melchiorre's eye and turned his thumbs down, indicating that the plans again were changed—the team was to win under the point spread. Thinking the orders were coming from Kaye, Melchiorre nodded.

Church Membership Zooms During 1950

NEW YORK — (AP) — Church membership in the United States rose to 85,705,280 in 1950, a record-making 55.9 per cent of the population.

The total membership was up 2,950,987 over the previous year.

The figures were reported in an annual survey compiled by the Christian Herald magazine.

These counts for the major faiths were listed:

Protestant membership rose 1,409,045 to a total of 50,083,868, an increase of 2.89 per cent over the previous year.

Roman Catholics increased 859,784 to a total of 28,470,092, up 3.1 per cent.

Jewish congregations, on which there were no new statistics, remained listed at 5,000,000.

The magazine, which makes the only comprehensive, regular survey of church membership in the United States, said "the major faiths continue in about the same proportion to each other."

"Protestants are still well in the lead, with 58.5 per cent of all church members," the report said. "Roman Catholics claim 33.2 per cent of the total, while Jewish congregations account for 5.8 per cent." The remaining 2.5 per cent is split among various other groups.

Church membership rose to an all-time record of 55.9 per cent of the nation's population.

Persons not belonging to any church now make up 44.1 per cent of the population. Fifty years ago, the percentage of non-members was 65.3.

Southern Baptist, which added 318,624 members in 1950 for a total of 7,079,889, had the biggest gain of any single protestant denomination.

The Methodist church still is the largest protestant denomination. Its membership rose 143,078 to a total of 8,935,647.

Record Timber Cut In Forests

Regional Forester Issues Report

A record cut of timber on the national forests of the Lake and Central States during the fiscal year 1951 is reported by Jay H. Price, regional forester at Milwaukee.

Surpassing last year's timber harvest by 38 percent, 261 1/2 million board feet were cut from national forests in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio in the 12-month period ended June 30. This tops the previous record, set in 1947, by almost 70 million board feet.

Twenty-five percent was sawtimber and went into lumber and veneer; 72 percent was pulpwood and bolts, and 3 percent piece products such as poles, posts and piling.

Leading in percentage of increase was the Chequamegon National Forest, Wisconsin, which doubled its 1950 production. Second was the Chippewa National Forest in Minnesota with an increase of 82 percent.

The current cut, valued at $1,338,000, represents interest on the national forest investment, according to Mr. Price. It is well within the "allowable cut" determined by the Forest Service on the basis of annual growth.

Woods work necessary in harvesting the 1951 crop provided an estimated 500,000 man-days of

Sleep Loss Major Accident Cause

CHICAGO — (AP) — An extra hour of sleep may mean the difference between a traffic accident and a safe trip, says Dr. W. A. Eggert, chief psychologist for the Kemper Insurance Group.

Dr. Eggert has shown in a survey that a driver who sleeps seven hours or less a night is inviting trouble. On the other hand, his research indicates that the accident-free driver averages eight hours or more sleep per night. His findings were based on a year-long study of industrial drivers.
